

The Days That Made America Tour

With Lindsay Graham and a full band.

Combining elements of Lindsay's hit podcasts American History Tellers, American Scandal, and History Daily, this live theatrical event tells the story of six critical moments in American history that made our country what it is today — for better or worse.

Not a podcast taping. A theatrical event.

1 Six days, one evening.

Lindsay walks the audience through six turning points, drawn from the same primary sources that power his podcasts. Each is told as a story, not a lecture.

2 Live music throughout.

A three-piece band of veteran touring musicians — Jeff Ryan on drums, Tony Hormillosa on bass, James Henderson on guitar — scores each chapter with original compositions. Between them they've recorded and toured the globe with the likes of St. Vincent, The War on Drugs, and Daniel Johnston. Lindsay joins on second guitar.

3 Built for theaters — all ages welcome.

Projected archival imagery, standard stage lighting, no fourth wall. Designed for proscenium houses and concert halls alike. Appropriate for the whole household.

Live at the Granada Theater, Dallas · March 2026

AFTER THE DEBUT

“Educational, heartbreaking, reflective, humorous. Things they didn’t teach you in school.”

“I came in with zero expectations, and it blew me away.”

“I’d never listened to the podcast before — so I was pleasantly surprised. The music made it powerful, and I learned new history.”
